HOPE CHEN - RESUME REVIEW

Overall Assessment

Overall Score: 90/100 → 95/100 (After Implementation)

Your resume is solid with a clear value proposition, strong quantified achievements, and good brand name references. The design is clean and 95% of the content works well. You explain your tools and skills in relation to target roles effectively.

First, minor presentation issue with title size being too small under your name, reducing visual impact of your positioning.

Second, tactical vs strategic balance in some work experience bullets that describe what you did without explicitly linking results to wider business goals or strategic impact.

Third, LinkedIn profile incomplete (outside scope of this review) making it harder for recruiters to find you through search.

However, you have strong underlying qualifications for marketing manager roles. Your 10 years FMCG and retail experience, budget management, work with premium brands (adidas, Schweppes, BMW), quantified achievements, and clear progression from Account Executive to Manager demonstrate capability. The problem is not your experience, it is minor refinements to presentation and linking tactical wins to strategic outcomes.

What's Working Well

◆ Strong quantified achievements throughout - Every highlight bullet includes specific metrics (11x, 10%+, 153%, 40%) demonstrating measurable impact, not vague claims

◆ Premium brand credibility - Experience with adidas, Schweppes, BMW, JP Morgan, LG Taiwan provides immediate credibility and shows ability to work at scale

◆ Clear budget management scope - NT$18M A&P responsibility signals manager-level accountability and financial stewardship

◆ Well-organized structure - Selected Highlights section draws attention to best work upfront, Core Competencies provides keyword-rich summary, experience shows appropriate detail levels

◆ Appropriate length and focus - Most recent role gets proper emphasis, older roles condensed appropriately, overall resume is scannable and focused

What Can Be Improved

◆ Title font size too small - "Brand & Category Growth Manager" needs to be larger and bolder for better visual hierarchy and immediate positioning clarity

◆ Some bullets focus on execution without business context - Several work experience bullets describe what you did and how, but do not explicitly link to wider business goals or strategic outcomes

◆ MS Office listed unnecessarily - This is assumed for marketing roles and wastes space that could showcase more distinctive skills or be removed entirely

◆ Shape Advertising bullet lacks outcome - Describes integrated GTM execution well but missing what resulted from the work (awareness lift, engagement rate, launch success)

◆ ADK Taiwan bullet emphasizes operational metric - 100% on-time rollout is good but does not show marketing impact or campaign effectiveness

◆ Ogilvy bullet purely operational - Describes coordination of activations without any business outcome like trial rates, sales lift, or market share impact

Overview

Element	Current State	Optimal State	Priority
Title Font Size	Too small, weak visual hierarchy	Larger, bolder to match professional positioning	🔴 HIGH
Mediacom Bullet 1	Strong metrics but brands not separated	Clarify which metric came from which client, add business goal linkage	🔴 HIGH
Mediacom Bullet 2	Good reach metric but process vague	Specify "weekly performance reviews," link to budget efficiency goal	🔴 HIGH
Mediacom Bullet 3	Negative framing of efficiency	Positive framing (27% improvement) plus business outcome (more customers for same budget)	🔴 HIGH
Shape Advertising Bullet	Execution described, no outcome	Add campaign results (awareness, engagement, launch success)	🟡 MEDIUM
ADK Taiwan Bullet	Only operational metric (100% on-time)	Add marketing effectiveness metric beyond execution	🟡 MEDIUM
Ogilvy Bullet	Coordination focus, no impact	Add business outcomes (trial rate, sales lift, compliance record)	🟡 MEDIUM

Tools Section	MS Office listed (assumed)	Remove MS Office, optionally add data analysis bullet to experience	🟢 LOW
Selected Highlights	Excellent content	Remember to customize for each application	🟢 LOW
Core Competencies	Well organized	Adjust keywords to match each job description	🟢 LOW
Profile Summary	Clear, quantified, strong	No changes needed, already excellent	🟢 LOW
Education	Clean and appropriate	No changes needed, already optimal	🟢 LOW

Key Improvements Explained

We identified 5 strategic transformations to position you optimally across your target roles. Here are the highest-impact changes:

🔴 #1: Increase Title Font Size for Better Visual Hierarchy

Current Version (Weak Positioning):

Hope Chen Brand & Category Growth Manager [small font]

Problems:

⚠️ Title too small compared to name - Reduces visual impact and makes professional positioning less clear at first glance when recruiters scan resume

⚠️ Weak hierarchy creates confusion - Your name dominates while your professional identity appears as an afterthought rather than co-equal positioning statement

⚠️ Harder for recruiters to quickly categorize you - Small title means they spend extra seconds figuring out what level and type of marketer you are

Optimized Version:

Hope Chen BRAND & CATEGORY GROWTH MANAGER [larger, bolder font]

Why This Works:

✅ Immediate role clarity - Larger title ensures recruiters instantly understand your positioning without squinting or re-reading

✅ Professional visual balance - Name and title now have appropriate weight relationship, looking more polished and intentional

✅ Faster processing - Recruiters scan hundreds of resumes daily, clear hierarchy helps them categorize you correctly in 6 seconds

✅ Flexible for customization - When targeting specific roles (Product Marketing Manager, Marketing Manager), larger font makes title changes more noticeable

Impact: Simple visual change improves first impression and ensures your positioning is not overlooked. Title is the second thing recruiters see after your name, it deserves visual weight.

🔴 #2: Add Data Analysis and Excel Capability Through Experience Context

Current Version (Assumed Skill Listed):

Languages: Chinese (native) | English (fluent) Tools: MS Office (Excel, PowerPoint)

Problems:

⚠️ MS Office is assumed - Every marketing professional uses Excel and PowerPoint, listing these wastes resume space on non-differentiating information

⚠️ No proof of proficiency level - Listing tool names does not show whether you use basic features or advanced analytical capabilities

⚠️ Missed opportunity to highlight data skills - Your work with NT$18M budgets and campaign optimization suggests strong Excel/analytical ability but this is not demonstrated

⚠️ Takes up line that could be removed - Tools section adds no value in current form, could be deleted entirely to clean up resume

Optimized Version - Option A (Remove Tools Section):

Languages: Chinese (native) | English (fluent) [Delete Tools section entirely]

Optimized Version - Option B (Add Data Analysis Bullet to Experience):

Languages: Chinese (native) | English (fluent) [Delete Tools section]

AND add new bullet to Mediacom role:

• Conducted advanced Excel-based campaign analysis and budget modeling for NT$18M A&P pool, creating automated dashboards and weekly performance reports that informed real-time optimization decisions and improved forecast accuracy by [X]%.

Why This Works:

✅ Option A removes assumed information - Cleaner resume without non-differentiating generic skills

✅ Option B demonstrates capability through application - Shows Excel skills through actual business use (budget modeling, dashboards, forecasting) rather than just claiming proficiency

✅ Option B adds analytical credibility - "Advanced Excel-based analysis" and "automated dashboards" signal data sophistication beyond basic spreadsheet use

✅ Option B provides quantifiable outcome - Improved forecast accuracy by X% shows business value of analytical work

✅ Both options free up space - Removing Tools section allows more room for impactful content elsewhere if needed

Impact: Either removes non-differentiating information (Option A) or transforms generic skill claim into proof of analytical capability with business impact (Option B). Option B is recommended if you want to emphasize data analysis skills for roles requiring strong analytical ability.

🟡 #3: Add Campaign Outcomes to Shape Advertising Experience

Current Version (Execution Without Results):

• Orchestrated integrated GTM for LG Taiwan with influencer storytelling and social video assets, ensuring message consistency and execution quality across touchpoints.

Problems:

⚠️ Describes process but not outcome - Explains what you did (orchestrated GTM, ensured consistency) without showing what resulted from this work

⚠️ Missing marketing impact metrics - No awareness lift, engagement rate, campaign success indicators, or business results

⚠️ Purely operational focus - Reads like project management (ensuring consistency, execution quality) rather than marketing effectiveness

⚠️ No proof of campaign success - Could have executed perfectly but failed to move business metrics, leaving reader uncertain about actual performance

Optimized Version - Option A (If You Have Metrics):

• Orchestrated integrated GTM campaign for LG Taiwan combining influencer storytelling and social video assets across 5+ touchpoints, ensuring message consistency and execution quality; achieved [X]% increase in brand awareness and [Y]% engagement rate, exceeding campaign benchmarks.

Optimized Version - Option B (If No Metrics Available):

• Integrated GTM campaign for LG Taiwan combining influencer storytelling and social video assets across multiple touchpoints, ensuring message consistency and execution quality; successfully launched [product/campaign name] on time and on budget, delivering cohesive brand experience across digital and social channels.

Why This Works:

✅ Option A adds quantified marketing outcomes - Awareness and engagement metrics show campaign actually moved business indicators, not just executed tasks

✅ Option A includes performance benchmark - "Exceeding campaign benchmarks" provides context that results were strong, not just present

✅ Option B shows project success - Even without performance data, on-time and on-budget launch demonstrates accountability and execution excellence

✅ Both options specify scope - "5+ touchpoints" or "multiple touchpoints" gives sense of campaign complexity and integration challenge

✅ Both maintain quality emphasis - Still highlights message consistency and execution quality while adding results layer

Impact: Transforms execution description into proof of marketing effectiveness. Shows you delivered business results, not just completed tasks. Option A is stronger if you have the data, Option B works if metrics are unavailable.

🟡 #4: Add Strategic Metrics to ADK Taiwan and Ogilvy Action Experience

Current Version ADK Taiwan (Operational Focus):

• Managed integrated ATL, digital and retail campaigns for BMW, JP Morgan, CITIZEN and Kirin Beer, ensuring messaging and on-ground activities supported brand positioning and business goals, aligning ATL/POSM/digital deliverables and cross-team timelines; achieved 100% on-time rollout.

Current Version Ogilvy Action (Coordination Focus):

• Executed 30+ in-store activations for British American Tobacco, coordinating brand stakeholders and field crews under tight timelines and brand compliance requirements.

Problems:

⚠️ ADK bullet emphasizes only operational metric - 100% on-time rollout is good but does not show marketing impact or campaign effectiveness for premium brands

⚠️ Ogilvy bullet purely describes coordination - Explains logistical execution without any business outcome like trial rates, sales lift, or market impact

⚠️ Both miss strategic value demonstration - Focus on project management (timelines, coordination) rather than marketing results

⚠️ Undersells work with premium clients - BMW, JP Morgan deserve more than execution checklist; BAT activations should show business impact

Optimized Version ADK Taiwan:

• Managed integrated ATL, digital and retail campaigns for BMW, JP Morgan, CITIZEN and Kirin Beer, ensuring messaging and on-ground activities supported brand positioning and business objectives; aligned ATL/POSM/digital deliverables across cross-functional teams to achieve 100% on-time rollout and [X]% improvement in campaign effectiveness scores year-over-year.

Optimized Version Ogilvy Action - Option A (With Impact Data):

• Executed 30+ in-store activations for British American Tobacco across retail channels, coordinating brand stakeholders and field crews under tight timelines and compliance requirements; achieved [X]% increase in product trial and [Y]% sales lift during activation periods, contributing to regional market share growth.

Optimized Version Ogilvy Action - Option B (Without Specific Data):

• Executed 30+ in-store activations for British American Tobacco across retail channels, coordinating brand stakeholders and field crews under tight timelines and regulatory compliance requirements; maintained 100% compliance record while delivering engaging consumer experiences that drove product awareness and trial in competitive retail environments.

Why This Works:

✅ ADK version adds marketing effectiveness metric - Campaign effectiveness scores show strategic impact beyond operational execution

✅ ADK version maintains operational strength - 100% on-time still present but now paired with marketing outcome

✅ Ogilvy Option A adds business impact - Trial rates and sales lift demonstrate marketing effectiveness of activations

✅ Ogilvy Option B shows dual success - Compliance record plus engagement outcomes demonstrates balanced execution

✅ Both emphasize premium client value - Results context makes work with BMW, JP Morgan, BAT more impressive

Impact: Elevates older experience bullets from project management focus to marketing effectiveness demonstration. Shows career progression from execution-focused roles to strategic current position. Even early career work shows business impact orientation.

🟢 #5 Optimize Header and Minor Formatting Elements

Current Version (Functional But Could Be Cleaner):

Hope Chen Brand & Category Growth Manager [small font]

+886 987 190 745 | hopechenyo@gmail.com LinkedIn: https://www.linkedin.com/in/hopechenyo/

Problems:

⚠️ Title already addressed in #1 - Font size issue covered above

Optimized Version:

Hope Chen BRAND & CATEGORY GROWTH MANAGER [larger, bolder font]

+886 987 190 745 | hopechenyo@gmail.com LinkedIn: linkedin.com/in/hopechenyo

Why This Works:

✅ More professional appearance - Streamlined format looks more polished

✅ Easier to type manually - If someone needs to manually enter URL, shorter version reduces errors

Impact: Minor polish that contributes to overall professional presentation. Small details matter when competing for manager-level roles.

Strategic Positioning & ATS Optimization

Role Clarity Strategy: Create Three Customized Versions

Version 1: Product Marketing Manager (UNIQLO)

Target: UNIQLO-Product Marketing Assistant Manager/Manager-R00000004167264

Resume Effectiveness Improvement

Before Optimization

❌ Title too small reduces positioning clarity → Recruiters may overlook or misunderstand your level

❌ Some bullets focus on tactics without business context → Appears execution-focused rather than strategic

❌ MS Office listed as skill → Wastes space on assumed information

❌ Shape Advertising lacks outcome metrics → Missing proof of campaign effectiveness

❌ ADK Taiwan emphasizes only operational metric → Does not show marketing impact for premium brands

❌ Ogilvy Action purely coordination focus → Missing business outcomes from activations

Estimated Pass Rate: 70-75% for target roles (Strong experience but minor presentation gaps reduce impact)

After Optimization

✅ Larger title with better hierarchy → Immediate positioning clarity for recruiters

✅ All bullets link tactics to business goals → Demonstrates strategic thinking and business impact orientation

✅ MS Office removed or replaced with data analysis proof → Showcases distinctive analytical capability

✅ Shape Advertising includes campaign results → Proves marketing effectiveness beyond execution

✅ ADK Taiwan adds effectiveness metrics → Shows strategic value for premium client work

✅ Ogilvy Action includes business outcomes → Demonstrates results orientation from early career

---

Next Steps

1. Fix Format and Basic Information

✅ Increase Title Font Size

• Make "Brand & Category Growth Manager" larger and bolder • Ensure title has visual weight comparable to your name • Test readability by viewing resume from 3 feet away

2. Transform Experience Bullets to Link Business Outcomes

✅ Add Outcome to Shape Advertising Bullet

• If you have metrics: Add "[X]% increase in brand awareness and [Y]% engagement rate, exceeding campaign benchmarks" • If no metrics: Add "successfully launched [product/campaign name] on time and on budget, delivering cohesive brand experience"

✅ Add Strategic Metric to ADK Taiwan Bullet

• Add "[X]% improvement in campaign effectiveness scores year-over-year" • Maintains 100% on-time rollout while adding marketing impact

✅ Add Business Outcome to Ogilvy Bullet

• If you have data: Add "[X]% increase in product trial and [Y]% sales lift during activation periods" • If no data: Add "maintained 100% compliance record while delivering engaging consumer experiences that drove product awareness and trial"

3. Optimize Tools Section

✅ Remove MS Office

• Delete Tools section entirely, OR • Replace with data analysis bullet experience if you want to emphasize Excel/analytical skills

4. Apply to 5-10 Target Roles

After Resume is Optimized:

• Apply to similar product marketing or brand marketing manager roles at FMCG/retail companies

• Use customized version for each role type

• Track applications in spreadsheet with version used and results

5. Prepare Interview Stories Using STAR Method

For Each Major Achievement:

Prepare 2-3 minute stories following STAR framework:

• Situation: What was the context/problem?

• Task: What was your specific responsibility?

• Action: What did you do? (step-by-step)

• Result: What happened? (quantified outcome)

Example for your 11x sales uplift achievement:

• S: Schweppes facing declining sales in competitive beverage market, needed breakthrough campaign

• T: Lead GTM/IMC strategy to reverse sales trend and regain market share

• A: Translated consumer insights into channel-specific strategies, optimized O2O conversion with targeted digital and offline mix, implemented weekly performance reviews for real-time adjustment

• R: Achieved 11x sales uplift during campaign period, exceeding target by [X]% and contributing to overall brand growth

Use my full interview prep guides: • English Interview Prep Guide • Chinese Interview Prep Guide (中文面試準備指南)

Reminders

✅ Do's:

- Customize for each application - Change 2-3 bullets to match JD
- Follow up after applying - Email recruiter 5-7 days later
- Be ready to explain every metric - Interviewers will ask
- Keep examples confidential - Don't mention internal project names
- Show genuine enthusiasm - Reference specific company initiatives

❌ Don'ts:

- Don't apply without customization - Quality > quantity
- Don't exaggerate metrics - Be ready to support with data
- Don't badmouth previous employers - Stay professional
- Don't ignore cultural fit - Research company values

💭 Final Thought

Your experience is strong:

Your previous resume was already solid at 90/100.

The presentation was clear and achievements were quantified.

These refinements move you to 95/100 by linking tactical excellence to strategic business outcomes.

You have the experience. Now you have the positioning. Go get the offer.

Good luck! 🚀

📝 Your Feedback Matters

I hope this review has been valuable in strengthening your application.

If you found this review helpful, I'd greatly appreciate your feedback:

1. Share Your Feedback: Leave your thoughts here
   - Your honest feedback helps me improve the service
   - Testimonials help other job seekers discover this service
   - I read every response and continuously refine my approach

2. Leave a Trustpilot Review: Share your experience here
   - Public reviews help build credibility
   - Your review helps other professionals make informed decisions
   - Why is the Trustpilot score 3.8?
     I've just started a new business and Trustpilot applies an initial weighting for new businesses, which can temporarily lower early scores.
     As more real client reviews are added, the score adjusts to reflect actual service quality.
3. Share Your Results: When you land interviews or offers, let me know!
